Lab 5 Report

Due Date: 02/24/2016

In this lab, I worked on understanding the basics of authorization and linked together pages and functions using angularjs. The OAuth can be reached via the G+ button just under the search option. OAuth is important in many applications because it links the user to his or her profile and allows them to use the services under their account, this can be very helpful when linking information from account to account.
